Italian Reds Push For Power

ROME (AP)—Communist chief Palmiro Togliatti, citing Red gains in Italy's national election, made a bid Sunday to get Communists into the government of this Atlantic alliance nation.

He made his move as Premier Amintore Fanfani's center-left alliance, which suffered reverses in last week's polling, showed signs of heading toward an internal crisis.

In a front-page interview in L'Unita, the Communist party organ, Togliatti claimed the more than a million new votes picked up by the Communists proved Italy wants an all-out left-wing government.

"The country asks for a government of the left," he said, "but no government will be able to call itself that if it is founded on the prejudicial exclusion of the Communist party."

Laos Plunges Deeper In Crisis

VIENTIANE, Laos (AP) — A pro-Communist Pathet Lao attack on two peace mission helicopters threatened Sunday to plunge Laos deeper into crisis, possibly civil war.

Foreign diplomats seeking to maintain an uneasy truce between the Pathet Lao and Premier Prince Savaneta Phouma's neutralists said the attack had made their job extremely difficult.

185 Arabs Drown

CAIRO (AP)—Provincial police began a house count Sunday of villages in the upper Nile region where a ferry loaded with Moslem worshippers capsized, drowning 185 persons, by early estimate.

Authorities said the house count is the only way to determine exactly how many were lost in Saturday's disaster at Minih, about 150 miles above Cairo.

Waiting relatives still lined the river banks scanning waters for bodies.

Scranton Vows Crackdown

LANCASTER, Pa. (AP) — Dist. Atty. Alfred A. Bouchard says the state highway safety bureau neglected to revoke the driver's license of a woman whose car later killed a man.

Alphonsus used the case of Mrs. Ruth Baker, 45, of Elizabethtown, R. D. 2, to urge speedy processing of license suspensions and revocations.

The Scranton administration said it inherited a backlog of suspension cases and is moving at full speed to clear it up.

Airliner Crashes In Cameroon

DOUADA, Cameroon (AP) — A four-engine airliner en route to Lagos, Nigeria, slammed into a mountain in this West African city last night, killing 54 persons aboard.

First reports from the scene said there were no survivors.

But, in Washington, D.C., the State Department said there was one survivor—a U.S. diplomatic courier.

Walter Honored

NEW YORK (AP) — Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., and Rep. Francis E. Walter, D-Pa., the latter in absentia because of illness—Sunday were given the 1963 Golden Rule awards of the Police Department's St. George Association.

They were cited for "devotion to God and country" in upholding "the ideal of the dignity of man in a free society."

Trieste Dives

BOSTON (AP) — The Navy's bathyscaphe Trieste returned to Boston Sunday after a successful test dive of 702 feet in its preparation to probe for the sunken submarine Thresher.

The Navy said the 67-minute dive was made in the Murray Basin area 60 miles east of Boston.

The Navy plans to send the bathyscaphe 230 miles east of Boston where the nuclear submarine Thresher is presumed to lie on the ocean floor.

B-47 Pilot Found

YELLOWSTONE NATIONAL PARK, Wyo. (AP)—The cockpit of a B-47 jet bomber that crashed Friday after colliding with a refueling tanker was found unharmed Sunday, in rugged Yellowstone National Park.

Capt. Bruce A. Chapman, 33, of Mountain Home, Idaho, was plucked by helicopter from a makeshift camp in the heavily forested snow-covered mountains and flown to Idaho Falls, Idaho.

The fate of the other three crewmen still was undetermined. Chapman said he believed they all got out of the crippled plane safely.

26,014 In Monroe County Get Oral Polio Vaccine

EAST STROUDSBURG — Two thirds of Monroe County's 40,000 residents took the Sabin oral polio vaccine yesterday—26,014 men, women and children filed through eight county clinics.

Dr. Hans-Helmut Brehm of East Stroudsburg, head of the Monroe County Medical Society program, said, "It went more smoothly than we expected. It was a successful program."

He said no difficulties were reported during the first of three Sabin Oral Sundays (SOS).

After the last clinic closed at 5 p.m., final reports gave this breakdown in order of estimated percent of area population:

	No. Vaccinated	Per Cent
Tannersville	2001	88
Mountainhome	2015	76
Stroudsburg	4324	71
Ramsey School	4324	71
Pocono Lake	894	70
East Stroudsburg	7360	66
Brooksideville	3566	65
Arlington Heights School	4188	63
Mt. Pocono	1666	43.5
Totals	26,014	66

The SOS started at 10 a.m. with a bang as the East Stroudsburg High School band visited the J. M. Hill School to receive Type I vaccine on sugar lumps before departing for a State Lions Convention in Allentown.

The Polio Control Center in the Pocono Medical Building kept a "tote board" posted with hourly progress reports from the eight distribution clinics.

Type III vaccine will be administered June 2 and Type II on June 30.

Dr. Brehm said the three-part program involving purchase of 40,000 doses each Sunday would cost about $15,000.

Cost of the program will be met by contributions made at each clinic station. The medical society asked for 25 cent donations and hopes to raise about $5,000 each Sunday.

Dr. Brehm said Sunday's contribution would not be totaled until later this week.

"If we do not raise enough, we will have to pay the difference ourselves," he said. If more than the final cost is raised, the excess will be donated to charity.

Traffic problems were handled smoothly by local police, society officials said. And police reserve couriers carried supplies and other material. The Bell Telephone Co. information center received questions from 10 a.m. to 5 p.m.

Carbon County

In Carbon County, a national record of 84.5 percent was claimed by the county medical society yesterday.

It reported a turnout of 44,713 for the second SOS Type III dose. The county had claimed an earlier national record of 83.5 percent with 44,059 of the 52,700 Carbon County residents receiving the first dose.

For Those Who Missed

MONROE COUNTY residents who were unable to receive their Sabin oral polio shots Sunday will be given an opportunity to make them up this week.

Each night, Monday through Friday, from 6:30 to 9:30 p.m., will be a Polio Make Up Night.

Those who missed the Sunday clinics are urged to go to the outpatient department of the General Hospital of Monroe County, East Stroudsburg, where the nurses, aided by the Gray Ladies, will administer the vaccine. This service is under the direction of Dr. James Fahl.

Police Let Negroes Pray Outside Packed City Jail

BIRMINGHAM, Ala. (AP) — More than 1,000 Negroes peacefully paraded to a park near Birmingham city jail Sunday where police commissioner Eugene Connor in a dramatic reversal of policy permitted them to pray and sing.

It was one of the largest planned demonstrations ever staged in the southern civil rights struggle.

Fire trucks were brought out but were not used as they had been to put down demonstrations Friday and Saturday.

The Negroes sang as they marched to a park about 300 yards from city jail where more than 1,000 Negroes arrested in previous demonstrations were being held.

After marching more than three blocks, the Negroes were stopped on the orders of Connor.

"Do not let them go past this corner," Connor shouted to a police captain. "Hold them until the fire wagons get here."

A fire captain asked Connor if he wanted water used.

"Hold it, let's give them another chance. Captain, ask them to leave again," Connor said.

The unidentified police officer talked with the Rev. A. D. King, brother of the Rev. Martin Luther King Jr. King said the Negroes only wanted to go to the park to continue their worship service.

The officer talked with Connor and the Negroes were then given permission to cross the street and go into the park. "Do anything you want to there as long as it is orderly," the officer said.

The Negroes sang and prayed for about 15 minutes then returned to church, walking in rows of two.

Never before had Connor permitted such an activity.

A large crowd had gathered at the church. Police blocked off the area and walked through the crowd telling everyone: "Let's keep moving."

The Rev. Wyatt Tee Walker, executive secretary of the Southern Christian Leadership Conference, was in the group, the first time he had taken an active part in the demonstrations.

The area is in a predominantly Negro district 20 blocks from the downtown area.

Hundreds of Negro spectators watched the marchers, but there were only a few white persons on hand in the area of the church.

Connor had ordered white spectators out of the area before the start of the church meeting. He refused to permit newsmen to enter the church and restricted them to an area across the street from the church.

They walked along the main east-west artery through Birmingham, Alabama's largest city. The street was blocked by police during the demonstration.

As the Negroes walked toward the jail they sang, "Ain't gonna let Bull Connor turn me around."

Connor, whose nickname is "Bull," has won a national reputation for his views on segregation. He had pledged to fill the Birmingham jails with Negro demonstrators soon after the Birmingham desegregation campaign began April 3.

During previous demonstrations Connor had barred orders in directing his officers to hose down demonstrators.

Sunday, however, Connor walked about quietly, giving orders in a low voice.

Meanwhile, the federal government's top racial trouble shooter worked today to settle the increasingly explosive segregation dispute in this southern industrial center. And Negroes visited white churches.

Ushers grabbed a white man by the arm to restrain him when Negroes visited Southside Baptist church, a church official said.

Dominican Troops Threaten Attack Across Haitian Border

SANTO DOMINGO (AP) — The Dominican Republic rushed more than 1,000 troops supported by tanks toward the Haitian border Sunday and the Organization of American States was called into another special session.

Gonzalo Frías of Costa Rica, president of the OAS Council, summoned members to an executive session Monday in Washington after hearing from his returned peace mission. Describing the situation as "highly" tense, Frías said the Dominican Republic and Haiti will not take part in the deliberations.

The Dominican forces on the move were reported, unofficially, ready to strike across the border into Haiti if the order comes.

The buildup was around Jimaní, a strategic town in Bahoruco Province along the border.

Rocket-firing combat planes were held in readiness not far away.

The movement of troops and heavy equipment began Saturday night. The order came from President Juan Bosch and was carried out openly with U.S. newsmen along.

Bosch has threatened to back up with troops his demand for the safety of Haitians who sought refuge in the Dominican Embassy in Port au Prince.

A Dominican diplomat claimed Haiti plans a bloodbath of his enemies if his strong-arm regime faces collapse.

One high-placed source depicted Bosch as ready to "use any excuse" to engage in armed warfare with Duvalier's forces. The Dominican leader was reported tired of the delay in releasing the 15 Haitian refugees after they were promised safe-conduct passes out of Port au Prince.

Flying in a single-engine charter plane over the Dominican mountain villages along the Haitian border, a group of U.S. newsmen sighted four medium tanks being transported on flat-bed trucks along the twisting roads.

Five troop carriers wended their way in the same direction.

Army checkpoints could be spotted from the air on routes leading to the border.

There were no air landing strips in the area.

The Dominican diplomat, just back from Haiti, charged Duvalier would order invasion of foreign embassies sheltering his opponents in order to wipe them out in the event of an uprising against his regime.

Republican leaders reassessed Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller's political future Sunday in the wake of his marriage, and many now believe it will not burn him.

A sample of political thinking just prior to the marriage, Saturday had shown many Republican committeemen and women fearful that the marriage would hurt the governor's chances for the presidency. But since the marriage the trend seems to be swinging the other way.

Arthur Elliott Jr., Michigan GOP state chairman, commented: "I think our friend Rocky has gone too far." The remarriage, he added, "will have a serious effect on his chances to even be considered a candidate."

Howard Corcoran, West Virginia state GOP chairman, said: "I think it's too early to forecast its ultimate effect. People will be inclined to take a cooler look at the situation before conventional time rolls around."

Ella Koene, Michigan Republican national committeewoman, said: "My own personal opinion is that this is one of Gov. Rockefeller's own private affairs. I don't think it's going to make any more impact on the women of America."

Webster B. Todd, New Jersey GOP chairman, and his wife, a former GOP national committeewoman, said any political damage Rockefeller may have suffered came after his divorce, and added that marriage may help him.

"People like to see a wife by a candidate's side," said Mrs. Todd. "If this girl is all they say she is," commented Todd, "she may help him."

The Todds said they do not know the former Mrs. Murphy.

Texas GOP Chairman Peter O'Donnell, organizer of a draft Barry Goldwater movement, said Rockefeller's action substantially increased Goldwater's chances.

Fred A. Young, newly appointed New York State GOP Chairman, said he believed "a person is elected on his or her ability to be a leader, based on a record of accomplishment."

Sen. Kenneth B. Keating, R-N.Y., expressed his best wishes to Rockefeller and his wife and declined to comment further.

Sen. John Tower, Texas' first

Republican senator since the reconstruction era, said: "I always believe a candidate should be judged on his public record, not his private life. I just can't predict what the remarriage will do to the governor's presidential hopes. Some people will resent it, others will not. But even on the public record alone, Goldwater is the man."

HARRISBURG (AP) — Pennsylvania Republican Chairman Craig Traxas said Sunday it was too early to tell whether New York's Gov. Nelson Rockefeller had hurt his chances for the 1964 presidential nomination by remarriage.

"The marriage has been talked about for several weeks. I haven't heard a firm opinion expressed within the party," said Traxas.

He predicted Republican leaders across the country would sound out public sentiment before deciding whether the marriage would affect a race between Rockefeller and President Kennedy.

"I think most political leaders follow public opinion instead of lead it," the state chairman said.

Traxas indicated, however, he felt Rockefeller's divorce by his first wife of 31 years may prove to be more damaging to his bid for the presidency than his remarriage.

"Any liabilities connected with the incident would be with the divorce, I think."

Rocky, Happy Fly Off To Venezuela

CARACAS, Venezuela (AP) — Beaming happily, Gov. Nelson A. Rockefeller and his bride arrived in Venezuela on Sunday to begin a South American honeymoon far from the American political arena still buzzing over their marriage.

A light rain and a shower of rice greeted them.

The New York governor and his bride, the former Margaretta Fisher Murphy, posed only briefly at Caracas' Mariscal International Airport after their arrival from New York on a commercial airliner. They then boarded a private plane and flew to their honeymoon retreat, Rockefeller's Monte Sacro — Sacred Mountain — ranch about 110 miles southwest of Caracas.

A group of Rockefeller business associates and Venezuelan officials greeted the couple on their arrival in Caracas.

The Rockefeller's laughed as they were pelted with rice while they climbed aboard the twin-engine Cessna 310G piloted by John Bogart, Capt. Edwin Galvin, Rockefeller's New York state police bodyguard, accompanied them on the 35-minute flight in the sunset plane.

Rockefeller gave newsmen in New York no time to question him as he left Idlewild Airport. He told them with a smile: "I know you would like to discuss politics with me but I don't think this is the time or the place," he said with a smile. "There will be plenty of chances for that subject and decisions at another time."

Thus Rockefeller's public debut with his bride of less than 24 hours failed to yield any personal assessment of his political future in the wake of dual divorces that made the marriage possible.

Rockefeller was divorced March 16, 1962, after 31 years of marriage, by Mary Toddman Clark Rockefeller, 53, like her successor a descendant of top-drawer Philadelphia society.

The new Mrs. Rockefeller, a trim woman with the nickname of "Happy," was radiant in the best tradition of a bride. It was her first introduction to newsmen, who were unable to breach the seclusion surrounding her after her Idaho divorce April from Dr. James S. Murphy, 41, a medical researcher for the Rockefeller Institute.

"I would like to say," Rockefeller told the newsmen, "that this is indeed a very happy occasion and I would like to introduce you to someone you have been looking for for a long time — Mrs. Rockefeller."

Stood On Plane

The Rockefeller stood atop a wing of the private plane for the short news conference, apparently unmindful of the rain. Mrs. Rockefeller wore a plain wedding band, a sleeveless blue blouse, brown skirt and brown shoes and carried a brown purse.

Passengers reported the Rockefeller held hands for a time after the ceremony.

"I would like to say," Rockefeller told the newsmen, "that this is indeed a very happy occasion and I would like to introduce you to someone you have been looking for for a long time — Mrs. Rockefeller."

Reds Admit Hitler Committed Suicide

PARIS (AP) — Cornelius Ryan, author of "The Longest Day," said Sunday the Russians found and identified Adolf Hitler's body in the Fuehrer's Berlin bunker in the closing days of World War II.

The Russians then secretly disposed of the body, he said.

Where? And how?

That, Ryan answered, "I'm saving for my book."

Ryan arrived in Paris from Moscow where he conducted research on the fall of Berlin for his next book to be entitled "The Last Battle."

He said the Russians were most cooperative, and admitted officially for the first time that they knew Hitler had committed suicide.

"The Soviet government officially considers Hitler dead," he said. Hitler shot himself through the mouth after going through a marriage ceremony with Eva Braun, his long-time intimate friend, according to Ryan's story.

Some of Ryan's information came from Soviet Marshal Vasily Chuikov who, as a Red army colonel-general in 1945, conducted truce negotiations with the Nazis.

According to Chuikov's account, German Gen. Hans Krebs was the negotiator for the German side.

At the first meeting, Krebs said: "I wish to inform you that you are to be the first to know that Hitler has committed suicide."

Chuikov wanted to know how Krebs knew this. Krebs produced a signed affidavit and Hitler's personally signed last will and testament. The will now is in Moscow.

Chuikov declined to show the will to Ryan, but he said, "I will tell you first line. It reads, 'I have married my dear friend Eva Braun.'"

Soviet Marshal Vasily D. Sokolovsky told Ryan, the author recounted, that Soviet officers confirmed the identity of Hitler's body by checking the teeth—albeit of the mouth had been blown away by the suicide bullet.

Mystery and rumor have surrounded the death of Hitler because none of the bodies found in the Chancellery where he was said to have died ever was positively identified as his, according to Western experts.

However, a report issued Nov. 1, 1945, by the Allied Control Council—which included the Russians—stated that, "Hitler and Eva Braun died shortly after 2:30 p.m. on April 30, 1945, in a bunker."

Goebbels, Hitler's aide, Martin Bormann, and others supervised the burning of the bodies in the courtyard, the report said, adding: "There is no evidence whatever to support any of the theories which presupposes that Hitler is still alive."

Scranton Tries Again On Taxes

HARRISBURG (AP) — The Scranton administration was optimistic Sunday regarding chances of getting its tax proposals through the House.

As the tax controversy entered its third week, Republican House leaders hoped their third attempt to pass a new tax measure would act as a charm.

Democrats, meanwhile, awaited action of the House GOP caucus Monday, vowing to oppose a raise in the sales tax from 4 per cent to 4½ per cent with the base extended to include clothing. At the present time, clothing is exempt.

The Senate meets at 4 p.m. EDT, Monday, and the House at 4:30 p.m. Gov. Scranton planned to meet with legislative leaders at breakfast.

It will be his first formal meeting with them since his statewide radio-television appearance last Wednesday in which he outlined his tax program.

The 4½ per cent sales tax, plus a one-cent additional levy on cigarettes, was Gov. Scranton's original plan. The plan, however, appeared to be losing support to a compromise proposal to boost the sales tax to 5 per cent and leave clothing exempt.

The 109-member GOP caucus has met on several occasions for the past two weeks in order to draw up support for the new taxes.

The administration needs 106 votes in order to get the new tax measures through the House. There are 109 GOP House members, but they reportedly are divided over what type of additional taxes, if any, should be enacted.

The Republican leadership is counting on virtually no support from Democratic ranks to pass a new tax bill. There have been some veiled threats thrown at the minority, however, to either support the governor's tax proposals or face a cut in spending. Most of the cuts presumably would be on projects in Democratic districts.

An administration spokesman said Saturday he believed opposition to a sales tax increase had softened considerably within the Republican caucus.

"It looks very good for this coming week," said A. James Reichley, the governor's legislative secretary.

Reichley estimated that 50 members of the GOP caucus originally were opposed to an increase in the 4 per cent sales tax to 4½ per cent with extension to clothing.

The opposition apparently dropped off when the governor agreed to accept a 5 per cent rate without taxing clothing.

The tax fight has overshadowed the rest of the legislative program. Little has been done on the school bills and other administration programs in the interim.

Still awaiting action are such major measures as compulsory reorganization of school districts, formation of a policy-making state council of education and tighter strip mining controls.

The bituminous strip mine bill is on the floor of the House and the administration has drafted an anthracite bill. The sponsors of the latter, however, have held up its introduction.

The administration last week introduced in the House its own community college bill and the Senate paved the way for final action on a bill to transfer the Bureau of Professional Licensing from the Department of Public Instruction to the Department of State.

Lawrence Attacks Scranton's Tax Speech

WASHINGTON (AP) — Former Pennsylvania Gov. David L. Lawrence ended his silence Saturday on the administration of his successor with an attack on what he called the governor's "radio-and-television soap-box opera tax appeal."

Lawrence was referring to a statewide broadcast last Wednesday in which Gov. William W. Scranton outlined his new tax proposals. Lawrence is a Democrat; Scranton, a Republican.

"I cannot continue to remain silent in the light of his (Scranton's) untruthful words and hypocritical actions," Lawrence declared in a statement issued in Harrisburg by the Democratic State Committee.

The former governor accused Scranton of attempting to discredit the preceding Democratic administration in "Typical Madison Avenue style with exaggeration and distortion."

"Worse," it is being conducted with dishonesty," added Lawrence, now chairman and executive director of the President's Committee on Equal Opportunity in Housing.

"A full response to the malicious untruths of the Scranton speech will be given on radio and television which have been requested to provide time for such a reply," he stated. "However, I believe general comment from me is necessary and appropriate now."

Lawrence said that under his administration, the 1961-62 fiscal year was concluded with a surplus in excess of $16 million.

In his address, Scranton accused the Lawrence administration of "fiscal trickery," which he said was largely responsible for the fiscal condition of Pennsylvania.

Senators Warn Of Nasser Aims

WASHINGTON (AP) — Pennsylvania Sens. Joseph S. Clark Democrat and Hugh Scott Republican agreed Sunday that state department policy should be changed to halt the expansion aims of Premier Gamal Abdel Nasser of Egypt.

Should Nasser ever gain complete control of the Arab world the senators said he could pounce on Israel and cause World War III.

In their bi-weekly radio-television program filmed for Pennsylvania stations Clark said that under both the Eisenhower and Kennedy administrations U.S. foreign policy has been "too pro-Nasser for my liking."

He said the policy was laid down by "permanent foreign service officers of bi-partisan or non-partisan nature in the state department."

Clark Calls For Fish Hatchery

WASHINGTON (AP) — Sen. Joseph S. Clark D-Pa. urged the establishment of a federal fish hatchery in central Pennsylvania, as a move to develop his state's water resources and fight unemployment by encouraging the recreation industry.

In a letter to Daniel H. Jagen, director of the bureau of sports fisheries and wildlife, Clark said Falling Spring Creek in Cumberland County and Yellow Creek in Bedford County have been suggested to him as possible locations.

Clark also wrote to Dr. Eric A. Walker, president of Pennsylvania State university, promising to press for establishment of a north-east hydrology research center at Penn State.

Furniture Furor

HARRISBURG (AP) — Speaker of the House W. Stuart Helm, R-Armstrong, confirmed a report voucher to the auditor general for $4,254 for furniture for his private office and his secretary's office. The voucher was approved.

Helm said there had been no new furniture in the office since 1953.

"Some of the desks were falling apart," he said.

Helm's remarks came in reply to a Democratic charge that Republicans were engaged in reckless spending of state funds on luxurious office furnishings.

Gambling Raids Catch 33

Federal agents have arrested 33 persons on gambling charges in eastern Pennsylvania and the Pittsburgh area.

Agents of the Internal Revenue Service made the arrests in a series of raids Saturday in Philadelphia, Lansdowne, Hazleton, and four western counties where 27 were arrested — Allegheny, Westmoreland, Lawrence and Washington.

In Hazleton, Dominic (Lefty) Mussoline and Louis (Lam) Farace were charged with wilful failure to register with the district director of the IRS before accepting wagers, and with failure to pay the special occupational tax of $50 a year. Agents said the two ran stores as fronts for gambling establishment. Betting equipment and an undisclosed amount of cash were seized.

U.S. Fears Cuban-Type Communist Coup In Haiti

(The executive vice president of Ottaway Newspapers-Radio, Inc., visited Haiti recently and has written a series of articles on the Caribbean nation for The Daily Record. He wrote this analysis in the light of the new Haitian crisis. Brown is publisher of the Danbury, Conn., News-Times.)

By Eugene J. Brown

Fear pervades Haiti.

It was part of our conversations with people in Haiti a few weeks ago and it grips the little nation now in more obvious forms.

Haitians are afraid to speak freely for fear of police suppression.

The United States is afraid of losing the country to Castro and Communism.

The uneasy atmosphere was there in the manner hotel keepers and government officials assured us "on the record" that the present political situation was just "newspaper talk" in the United States press.

The same people, in a moment of wanting to confide with someone, told me rather furtively that: "Actually, everything being said in the American press about (President) Duvalier is true."

But why are we interested in Haiti and its President Francois Duvalier? We have troubles of our own in Latin America without bothering with a Caribbean island nation about the size of Vermont.

Our interest in Haiti is fundamental to our problem in dealing with Cuba.

Haiti lies about 40 miles from Cuba across the Windward Straits. The sorry here is that Duvalier, whose days are numbered according to informed U.S. sources, will turn his regime over to Cuban-type Communists who could threaten the balance of power in the Caribbean. This would be a major defeat in our efforts to contain communism in Cuba.

Actually, from our conversations with Haitians and from the extreme poverty that prevails in Haiti, this writer doubts whether Communism could get much of a foothold in Haiti. There is nothing to take over. There is no land to be divided (the peasants already own as much land as they care to work; and there is no efficient middle class to help run the country.

Notwithstanding, in the personal opinion of this writer, the U.S. government just can not afford even a remote chance that Haiti would fall under the domination of the Communists.

Occupation of Haiti is not new to this country.

By 1915, Haiti's economic and political condition had become so bad that the United States sent in its Marines to restore order, protect investments and to prevent angry European creditor nations from doing the same thing. We stayed in Haiti for the next 19 years, finally evacuating our Marines in 1934 even though we maintained financial control until 1941.

The events of the last few days are forging a similar pattern which could very well lead to armed intervention on our part or an open support of the Dominican Republic in its quarrel with its neighbor.

The Dominican Republic occupies two-thirds of the island of Hispaniola, with Haiti the other third. At one time both countries were united but Dominicans secured their own independence in 1849. The larger republic is generally more prosperous than Haiti and has developed an enlightened middle class, which have contributed to the advancing standards of that country.

Aside from being convenient to the American tourist, Haiti belongs neither in the Caribbean nor in Latin America. According to an article in the current issue of Harpers, Haiti economically and racially belongs in Africa. Ninety per cent of the Haitians are Negroes, absolutely illiterate, scratching out a bare living on tiny plots of land most of which is eroded.

Socially it belongs in pre-Revolution France, where the cultured mulatto elite attempts to ignore the existence of the 90 per cent peasant class.

Haiti's population density is higher than that of either India or China and the population grows by leaps and bounds even though 60 per cent of the infants die before reaching their first birthday.

One of the prime sources of income to Haiti is tourists. Pan American, the single line now flying to Haiti, has not been landing its planes the last few days and undoubtedly the cruise ships will skip the island.

The 1500 Americans in Port-au-Prince have been put on the alert for evacuation. We do have 50 Marines in the capital city. The Haitian army consist of 5,000 trained regulars and an uncounted number of secret policemen.

Right in your own kitchen, you'll see one of the most important benefits of flameless electric living. Because an electric range is flameless, your kitchen stays clean and new-looking. There are no grimy fuel deposits on walls, cabinets, curtains or the range itself. That means less work for you.

A flameless electric range is one of the work-saving appliances that enables you and your family to enjoy the cleanliness and convenience of total electric living. It's the carefree way to prepare delicious meals.

Whether you're buying a new home or remodeling your present one, make sure your kitchen has the advantages of flameless electric living. Write or call us for free information that will help you plan your next kitchen.

Young And Old Came For First Dose Of Sabin Oral

STROUDSBURG — The two Sabin Oral vaccine centers in Stroudsburg were buzzing all day with crowds of residents who came to free themselves from the threat of polio. The centers were at the Ramsey School and Arlington School.

Babies and very old people, as well as all ages in between, came in all forms of clothing to receive the vaccine.

It was reported that at one of the centers a man refused the sugar cube because he was on a diet. The doctor in charge told him that the sugar cube contained only nine calories, but he was adamant. He was finally given the vaccine from a dropper.

At the Ramsey School center, Harvey T. Pullen, in charge of administering vaccine to infants, said that a pair of twins appeared early in the day.

"The babies squaled quite a bit from being man-handled," Pullen said, "but on the whole, most of the work was pretty routine."

He said that diabetics were also given the vaccine from a dropper if they requested it. "Actually, the small amount of sugar in the cube would probably not hurt them, but one can't blame them for being apprehensive."

Harold Flagler, Stroudsburg pharmacist, was assisting in administering the Sabin Oral. "The turnout has been great all day," he said, "the weather has been perfect for a large turnout."

One of the gray ladies at the Ramsey center said that "if we could only get this large a turnout at elections, it would be a fine thing."

The oldest age reported at the Ramsey center was 92. It was noted by the assistants there that many old people were getting the vaccine. "I didn't think many old persons would come out today," one nurse said, "but they have been turning out in force."

At the Arlington Center, 485 persons were given the vaccine in the first half hour of operation. Many residents went directly from church to the vaccine centers, and many were dressed in their Sunday best.

Accidents will happen, and after receiving her vaccine, one little girl at the Arlington center closed her car door on her fingers. Little damage was done, but she must have felt that even if you escape the needle, you get stung some way.

They came to all centers in suits, Bermuda shorts, overalls, and one man came in a bathing suit. When he got to the donation desk, he realized that his bathing suit had no pockets in it, and he was stuck for change. The attendant waved him through with a smile.

Everett Off Serious List In Georgia

BRUNSWICK, GA. — William Henry Everett, of East Stroudsburg, was removed from the serious list yesterday, a spokesman for the Brunswick Hospital said last night.

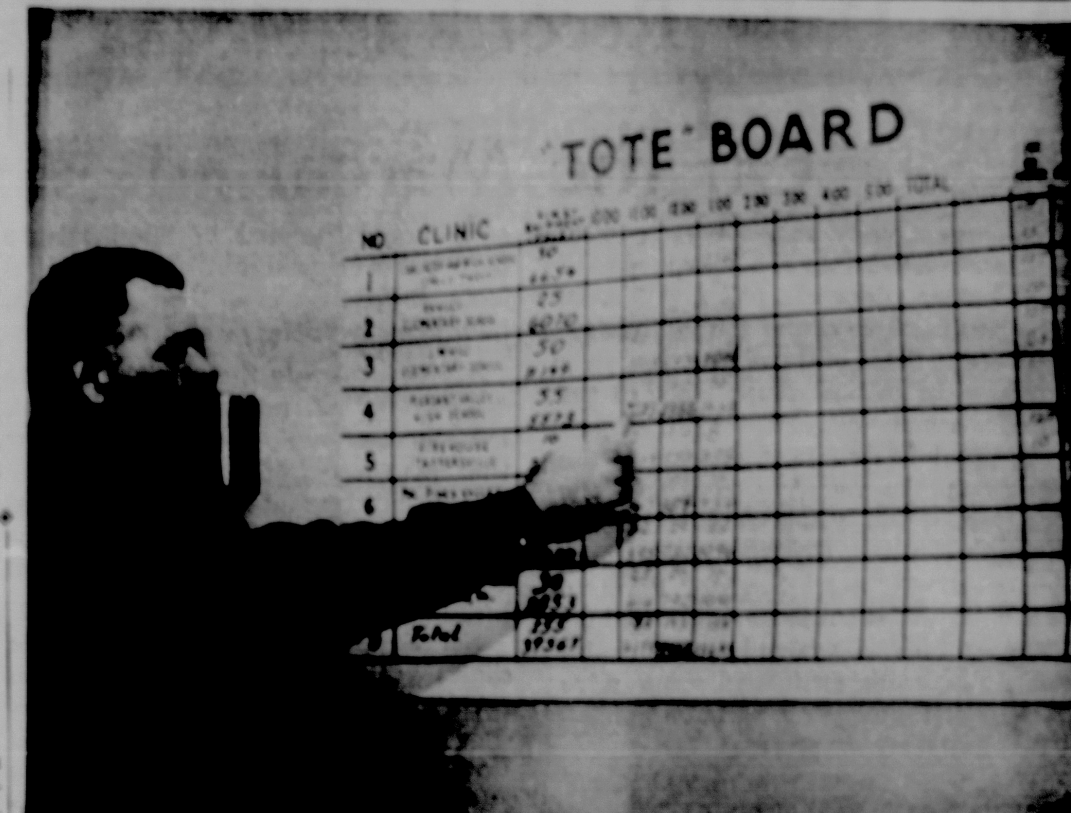

He had been in serious condition after being lamed in the throat. Everett underwent surgery for a wound in his windpipe.

His wife, is listed in good condition.

Mr. and Mrs. Everett were driving south to visit relatives in Florida. They stopped at a wayside rest and were pounced on by two escaped fugitives from a Georgia prison.

The prisoners, identified as Stony Barrett, 23, of Columbus, Ga., and Ronald Consey, 30, of Savannah, Ga., stabbed Everett and left him for dead. Mrs. Everett was bound, gagged and drug into the bushes to prevent passing motorists from sighting her.

The fugitives were recaptured six hours later and are charged with assault with intent to murder and robbery by force. Both charges in Georgia carry a maximum penalty of death.

On The March!

Monroe County residents responded in mass Sunday to the challenge of eliminating dreaded poliomyelitis. In the first of three clinics for administration of the Sabin oral polio vaccine, they marched in an unending stream to the various county centers.

It was inspiring to visit some of the clinics in the county throughout the day and watch whole families march through the line. Everybody was there—from grandma all the way down to the tiniest infants. Some were walking; some semi-invalids came in wheel chairs and—others on crutches; some were just toddlers holding a parent's hand—but it was a steady stream.

The whole scene was like an army on the march—an army of civilians fighting the enemy polio with the best ammunition available to date. The marchers cooperated in the battle to defeat this crippling disease by immunizing themselves and their families, both as susceptibles or as carriers.

We congratulate the residents of the county for their interest and we thank the Monroe County Medical Society for the first success of its program. Many of the members of this group worked diligently to set up the program and insure its success. It was a good job, well done!

For those who failed to attend the clinics yesterday, a program has been set up to provide them with the vaccine during this week at the General Hospital of Monroe County. If you are one of these, read the details in the news columns, and avail yourself of this protection.

Opinions Of Other Editors

For Doctors In The 1970s

It is hardly accidental that the first important administration bill to clear the U. S. House of Representatives this year should be authorized to expend $206 million to help education in medical and allied professions.

While there is nothing approaching unanimity on the merits of the bill, the merit of the general thesis that something badly needs to be done in this sphere seems to most Americans undebatable. This shared feeling was clearly apparent by the House, which approved the measure by the impressive vote of 288 to 122.

Someone reckoned rightly that assistance to medical and affiliated training was a good choice to spearhead President Kennedy's legislative program.

What made it so is the common and increasing experience of ordinary citizens with a doctor shortage and a nurse shortage, and a beginning of understanding as to why such respected fields continue widely understaffed. The reason, in the case of physicians particularly, is the brutally high cost of the requisite education. To become an income-earning doctor now takes longer than ever before, and the price of each year of training has skyrocketed. Many young men with the aptitude have no choice but to pick a profession in which the financial returns come sooner.

The more modest demands made of nursing trainees, pharmacists, and optometrists still have to be weighed against modest expectable returns—as contrasted with fields of less benefit to society but more lucrative to the individual.

The bill passed by the House will not cure the ailment but it will help, by providing grants and loans both to institutions and certain of the students. It will provide, a decade hence, doctors who without its help would become something else. This objective and the apparent need got the big spending bill through the House. The same considerations are expected to see it through the Senate.

Dr. Spock Steps Out

It's an old story in the United States that when you become a success at one thing, it automatically entitles you to an opinion on everything else. This is not necessarily bad, for to be a success in almost any field you must have a certain amount of shrewdness or talent, which are qualities that can carry over into other lines. Cross education is sometimes more productive of true insight and originality than straight education.

There are limits, however, to this business of being a universal genius. I don't say that Dr. Benjamin Spock, the pediatrician whose "The Book of Baby and Child Care" has enthralled millions of mothers, has necessarily gone beyond his natural depth in his latest career as commentator on international relations. He does right to worry about the menace of thermonuclear weapons.

I don't like to drink strontium 90 in my milk either. But when doctor argues that "the exaggerated fear of Communist nations" must cause our children to suffer from a "lowering" of their optimism and their self-reliance when they grow up, one wonders a bit about the statement.

In the first place, who is the doctor hitting at? Who holds this "exaggerated fear of Communist nations"? Is it General Lucius Clay? He was so unframed of the Communists that he stared them down completely at the time of the Berlin airlift. Is it Senator Barry Goldwater? He has said, quite truthfully, that he would prefer to be in a pine box than to live in a communist satellite nation.

Is it Brigadier General Frank L. Hoesley? He is so sublimely unafraid of both Fidel Castro and Nikita Khrushchev that he would start a "paramilitary guerrilla" attack on Cuba tomorrow. Is it Harry Truman? He stood up to the Communists without shivering when they threatened to take over such varied pieces of real estate as Iran, Turkey, Greece and South Korea. True, he didn't always follow through, but that is another story.

The only place where this columnist encounters an "exaggerated fear" of Communists is when he talks with followers of such characters as Bertrand Russell. It is the "ban the bomb" unilateral disarmament crowd that quakes in its boots whenever Nikita Khrushchev says "boo." But Dr. Spock doesn't seem to be directing his fire at the exaggerated fears of Bertie Russell and Company, who quibble about "overkill" when the real problem is "under delivery."

Anyway, the good doctor ought to know that a certain amount of fear can be the most healthy thing in the world. Fear is what gives any animal the impetus to self-preservation.

If Dr. Spock had been in the business of advising our ancestors of the Seventeenth and Eighteenth Centuries, would he have warned them against worrying overtime about the Indians and their allies, the French? One can fancy him telling the good fathers of Deerfield, Massachusetts, on the night of a certain historic massacre that an "exaggerated fear" of the Mohawk braves might hurt the "optimism" of the coming generation of Puritan children.

The kids, of course, would not have lived to test Dr. Spock's opinion of their future. One could have said, in the Seventeenth Century, that it might be better to be Red (Indian) than dead, but the savages that sacked such frontier posts as Deerfield and Schenectady weren't in the mood to grant the option.

Davy Crockett rightly feared the Mexicans outside the Alamo, and the kids of America have loved Davy one of their heroes. Fear lived with the first settlers of the Dark and Bloody Ground of Kentucky, and because of this fear they put stockades around their settlements. Some of them lived to have children—and it is not on the record that later generations of Kentuckians suffered from a "lowering" of their optimism and their self-reliance.

If, as Dr. Spock says, our kids are "anxious" about our Cold War policies, it could be because they can see through the double-talk of their leaders who teach them about Patrick Henry and Valley Forge in school and then acquiesce lamely to the Sovietizing of an island ninety miles off the coast of the supposed land of the free. What lowers the self-reliance of any kid is the spectacle of a parent who refuses to stand up for his traditions and his rights.

The Pennsylvania Story Unanimity Of Thought

By Mason Denison

Harrisburg — Curiously perhaps, anti-administration Democratic lawmakers are finding themselves beset with a unanimity of thought and action they never quite enjoyed with their party held away in Pennsylvania's gubernatorial suite!

For example, on major tax matters of the past eight years when Democratic Governors Leader and Lawrence occupied the throne room and advanced their own "administration tax programs," it was next to impossible to muster solid support from Democratic lawmakers.

Where anything approaching full-blown backing of an administration tax program was forthcoming, it usually was the result of lead-piping, brood-beating, a threat of banishment to Outer Mongolia, etc.

Even so some of the brethren often still held out even though the Democratic caucus formally and officially endorsed the tax action in question.

Now the picture has changed somewhat. Democrats no longer run the sweeper in the Governor's Office. The need for support of "colleagues" in the front office—that is, colleagues of the same political faith—has vanished. At this point, "those guys from the other side of the aisle" (meaning of course Scrantonian Republicans) are at the helm.

What then has been—or is—the stand of legislative Democrats with respect to Republican tax proposals this session?

It is no secret that Democrats "generally" are opposed to the base of the tax plan: increasing the sales tax rate.

The question is: how "general" is this opposition?

Take for example the 101-member Democrat legislative bloc in the House of Representatives; how "general" is this bloc's opposition?

Actually, and this may come as somewhat of a surprise to many, no truly "official" stand on the sales tax proposal has ever been adopted this session by the minority bloc!

Democratic legislative leaders have said many times: "we're opposed to the tax increase proposal"—but that's where it has ended.

In assuming this stance, these leaders are quite correct—although no formal stand has been taken on the subject by the bloc!

In fact it wasn't until this past week that the subject even came up in House Democratic caucus for serious discussion—and even last week it didn't involve any great detailed exploratory effort.

What happened was this: House Democratic leaders asked caucus members if any were inclined to support the Scranton Administration sales tax increase proposals.

Significantly—not a single Democrat legislative mitt was raised toward the ceiling.

That was it. It wasn't a question of a formal "motion" calling for the caucus to go on record opposing the sales tax increase proposal; actually it wasn't necessary.

But back to the original point: such unanimity on a tax measure within the Democratic bloc rarely befell the preceding two Democratic administrations when they were seeking major tax support in the legislative branch.

Almost unconsciously the boys on the minority side this session seem to see eyeball to eyeball without any expenditure of effort.

Does this mean that Republicans, if they cannot muster the required 106 votes from within their own ranks, absolutely cannot count on opposition Democrats?

Not exactly—and this is why: there is a hard core of about half a dozen "sulking and simmering" Democratic lawmakers who have been stung to the quick by "rebuffs" received during the past Democratic Lawrence Administration and by some actions of Democratic legislative leaders this session.

Comments On Editorials

Editor, The Daily Record:
Probably I will be insulting someone down there, and possibly it is you (if so, I am sorry) but since somewhere around the first of this year your editorials have not just improved, but have become truly superior. There has been better writing there sometimes, and quite often, than is found, editorially, in even your biggest and richest papers. (I will always except the Christian Science Monitor, which I regard today as tops).

Perhaps all your readers are not editorial page readers as I am. They miss a lot. You can get most of the news by listening once or twice a day to the radio for local news and T.V. for national and world wide news, and the latest in sports.

But you do not really know your paper, your community or what is going on without continually monitoring the editorial page. This, I know, is hardly news to you. I am only saying you do an exceptionally good job of it. I save the ones I like.

No one can say that one subject is more important than another, but the subject matter of one editorial, which I enclose, is of vital importance to everyone. It is well and cleverly written. And it has a very big message. I wonder how many read it on February 26th?

Would it be possible to reprint it somewhere in the paper sometime when you have space to fill. It would not be any waste. It has only to be read to be appreciated.

Substitute For Tocks

(Following are excerpts from a letter received by Henry R. Schultzer, Bushkill, president of the Anti-Dam Committee. The letter was forwarded to The Daily Record as part of Mr. Schultzer's continuing fight against the Tocks Island Dam.)

"I am very sure that if proper in-souk methods were used on the Delaware River watershed, by terracing, small detention dams, reforestation, contour farming and other methods described in my book, Philadelphia would get a larger and better water supply from the Delaware River watershed than it would get from a big reservoir. Some of my previous letters have brought in this angle, as you will remember.

"If you will push your side of the argument vigorously, and if possible use the constructive angles of the 'better way' of in-souk, soil conservation practices, etc., I think it will add greatly to the prestige of your cause.

"Nothing would please me better than to have had some small part in the defeat of the Tocks Island outrage, and your leadership will count heavily and perhaps make you immortal.

"Our way of doing this water control job is new, compared with the ancient and obsolete big-dam-foolishness, and you may be able to sway the imaginations and activities of powerful groups."

Sincerely yours,

Pledge Or Lose

By Robert S. Allen and Paul Scott
Washington—The heroic survivors of the ill-fated Bay of Pigs invasion are faced with a crushing new ultimatum.
This latest "surrender" demand, as the Cuban veterans bitterly call it, is from the Kennedy Administration in the form of a blunt order to completely refrain from having anything to do with attacks against Castro's regime.

Penalty for disregarding this secret edict is immediate loss of the monthly payments they are receiving from the government.
This harsh crackdown is being explained individually to every member of the Cuban brigade by representatives of Attorney General Robert Kennedy.

These officials are conveying their orders orally and with no one present other than the freedom fighter hearing them.
Word of this extraordinary backstage development has reached the Senate Armed Services Subcommittee investigating the administration's failure to get the thousands of Russian troops out of Cuba.

One letter sent the senators recounts in detail how the invasion veterans are summoned and singly informed that their monthly allowances, ranging from $100 to $250, will be discontinued unless a categorical pledge of "no action" against Castro is given. If an edict balks, his name is forthwith stricken from the payroll.

Significantly, this ironhanded undercover pressure is being exerted on brigade members at the very time Attorney General Kennedy is publicly calling for unification of Cuban refugees in an organization that "could speak with one voice and have some relationship" with the U.S. and other countries.

New "Front" Group—Congressional sources close to the White House are saying privately that the Attorney General is spearheading a drive inside the administration to set up a new Cuban "front" under the leadership of Manuel Ray, member of the first Castro cabinet.

Also that only exile groups willing to go along with the President's "let the dust settle" policy are being asked to join this new organization and hold key posts in it.

Main purpose if the new "front" is described as aimed at expanding "contacts" with the Cuban underground which is to receive some financing as long as its operations remain secret. However, this organization will be barred from conducting raids or attacks on Cuba or Russians stationed there.

The administration's action in cutting off the $31,000-a-month allowance to the Cuban Revolutionary Council is part of this unannounced new policy.

Meanwhile, Russia is taking full advantage of the protection the U.S. is giving its shipping to Cuba. More than a score of Soviet freighters unloaded cargoes in Cuban ports in April.

At least half of these Communist vessels sailed through the Panama Canal, raising speculation among intelligence authorities that Russia may be opening a new Cuban supply route from Vladivostok.

Until last month most of the Red ships came from either Russian ports on the Black Sea or Baltic Sea ports of the satellites.

Military experts estimate that more than half of the Soviet ships are being used to rotate and supply Russian troops in Cuba. Latest estimate of the number of these forces is being revised upward by the Defense Intelligence Agency.

The DIA now believes there is a minimum of 22,000 and a maximum of 45,000 Soviet military personnel in Cuba, including 5,000 "elite" combat troops.

These figures have been submitted to the National Intelligence Estimates Board where they are under review. If approved, this report on Soviet troop strength then goes to the President.

He in turn will be faced with the painful dilemma of publicly admitting that the 13,000 total he has been using is incorrect, or suppressing the revised higher estimate.

Fighting Castro—Militant anti-Castro exiles have sent an emissary to Paris to talk to De Gaulle officials about using French possessions in the Caribbean as bases for attacks on Soviet occupation forces in Cuba.

The French islands of Martinique and Guadeloupe have numerous caves, excellently suitable as operational bases. This exile move, led by "Alpha 66," followed word from Paris that President de Gaulle is prepared to extend a helping hand to anti-Castro forces. The exiles have been told his sympathies are rooted in the experience of the Free French in World War II in fighting the Nazi occupation.

Tensions between the U.S. and Panama over the canal are easing, and Panamanians are giving much of the credit to Major General Robert J. Fleming, Jr., Governor of the Canal Zone. President Kennedy also helped by promising Panama a sizable increase in economic assistance.

Intelligence reports warn that the attacks of "Rastafarian" fanatics on Jamaica police are a serious threat to the island's democracy. The sect advocates that all negroes in the Western Hemisphere should return to Africa. It is being supplied with money and arms from Cuba.

Speaking Of Your Health:

Are You A Good Surgeon?

Of course you wouldn't dare try to remove an appendix but there are minor surgical problems in the home that you are perfectly qualified to tackle, the removal of splinters, for instance.

If you are going to play surgeon, you should do the few simple things that will make you an excellent one.

So sterilize that needle or tweezers by passing it through a flame. Then allow it to cool. Now you can begin your surgery.

First, apply a mild antiseptic to the site of the splinter. When your "operation" is complete, apply the antiseptic again, cover the "wound" and keep it clean. We surgeons can't be too careful!

Post-Infectious Weakness
Have you noticed how exhausted and tired and depressed you feel after an infection has disappeared—even a simple everyday cold?

Doctors call this post-infectious weakness.

Patients complain that they rise in the morning feeling as tired as they were the night before. Even those people who are normally energetic find that a little brisk activity leaves them limp and exhausted when they have just gotten over a virus infection or cold.

You should report these symptoms to your doctor. He can prescribe certain medications and suggest diets that can make your period of convalescence much shorter.

Of course it is important to remember that every illness deserves a period of rest before attempting to return to a routine of full activity.

CROSS-EYES
Many children are born with a tendency toward cross-eyes.

In most instances, cross-eyes are due to an imbalance of the eye muscles.

This condition is completely understood today by eye specialists. They emphasize that cross-eyes are remediable.

Very often cross-eyes can be corrected by glasses and by eye exercises. Sometimes surgery is necessary to correct the defective muscle that causes cross-eyes.

It is not a dangerous operation and results certainly justify this operation when necessary.

Early recognition and treatment of cross-eyes are important. If you think your child's eyes are crossed, you should consult your doctor at once.

Do not wait until the child is subjected to any embarrassment because of it. Under your doctor's direction he will not only have the advantage of better vision, but will be spared the emotional hurt associated with cross-eyes.

Dear Abby

Odd Surnames

DEAR ABBY: I was very much amused to note in your column that someone actually collected unusual surnames as a hobby. Here is one that tops them all: "MRS. BY THE WAY." Yes, that's right. Three separate words: "BY THE WAY." She is a friend of ours and lives in Maryland.

JOE CULLINAN

DEAR ABBY: As a postal employee I have run across some unusual names. To mention a few, "LUCY LACEY," "ETHEL BETHEL," "MARRINKA PINKA," and "UPSON DOWNS." On the same street live a "CHARLES DICKENS" and a "ROBERT BURNS." And how about this for a rare one — "HAPPY CLAPSADLE"?

E. W. V. (Phila.)

DEAR ABBY: The woman who collects unusual surnames should get herself a job in a clearinghouse. I have picked up such gems as "CAUGHTRAIN," "CLINKENBEARD," "PROUDFIT," "B. BOARD" and "IDA ASTER." Sincerely,

THELMA

DEAR ABBY: Please tell "Surname Collector" that she may add my name to her collection.

DAVID FEEBLECORN
(Brainerd, Minnesota)

DEAR ABBY: I went to school with a girl whose real name was "PEARL HANDLE." She married a boy whose name was "JACK KNIFE."

VIRGINIA ROM RENO

DEAR ABBY: Perhaps SURNAME COLLECTOR would like these: "STONEBRAKER," "RAINWATER," "TURNIPSEED" and "MONKEYTRICK." These are all authentic surnames which I found in my telephone directory.

"ON THE LEVEL"

NOSE DROPS
Nose drops make breathing easier when the nose is congested and blocked. But have you noticed how the nasal blockage gets to be more and more persistent as you continue to use more and more nose drops?

The lining of the nose just becomes lazy and doesn't do its own work, knowing that soon you'll be coming around with more drops.

The over-use of drops can cause a condition of blockage that can become stubborn and difficult to treat. This may persist long after the original infection or allergy for which the drops were prescribed. The dependence on nose drops must be broken, and the basic cause for the nasal blockage determined. If you use drops, use them sparingly.

DEAR ABBY: Speaking of unusual surnames, I know some dillies. They are authentic American Indian names. "Six Fingers," "Kill-A-Pretty-Enemy," "Kick-A-Hole-In-The-Soup" (honest!) and "Comes Out Holy." These names are all real. I know because I am—

Ryan Twins Set For Annapolis

By Jim Shafer
Daily Record Reporter

SWIFTWATER — John and Norbert Ryan, twin brothers and seniors at Pocono Mountain Joint High School, have accepted appointments to the U. S. Naval Academy at Annapolis, offered through Rep. Francis E. Walter of Easton.

"It is one of the few times that twins have been nominated for appointment to the service academy. They are the sons of Mr. and Mrs. Norbert Ryan of Mountbushome.

"John said, "I know there are many people we have to thank for the opportunity, most of them, however, are unknown to us. We are most grateful to Congressman Walter.

Norbert joined in saying, "We do not want those who have acted in our behalf to be slighted but we just don't know who the others are."

"The twins were recent guests of the academy for a weekend. Their reactions were:

"We were treated very well during our stay. We had one of the upper classmen as a guide. He showed us everything.

Joined Midshipmen

"We ate in the mess hall with the midshipmen and saw the piebald (members of the freshman class) go through their paces. Both of us have done quite a bit of talking about this since we returned home and we realize that the first year there will be rather hard," they continued.

Both of them are excited over going to the academy. They realize the honor, to the community, school, parents and county, that they are responsible for and not to let those persons who have made it possible down.

Did they have any trouble making up their minds on accepting the appointments? Norbert said,

"Yes, we did take some time to think about it. We had offers from other schools and they all pointed a very pretty picture, but after talking it over we both agreed we should accept the appointment.

"Following the completion of four years at the academy we will be commissioned ensigns in the Navy. We will be able to travel around the world, advance in rank, study at other schools, with the end result of being professional men."

He concluded, "We also talked about the future security and what we could expect in life 20 or 30 years from now."

The boys had other aims in life. Norbert wanted to be a dentist. John set his goal in law. They said, almost together, "These are the professions we had in mind earlier in high school."

Lawrence Wile, principal of Pocono Mountain Joint High School, and a commander in the U.S. Navy Reserve, advised that both have been good students in high school and also top athletes.

"They were on the varsity basketball team at Barrett High school before the new high school was built. They have been stars on the team in the jointure. Both also have been named Brite Star of the Week by The Daily Record. We are very proud of them."

Joseph Murray, a teacher at Pocono Mountain Joint High School and a retired Lt. Col. in the United States Marines, said, "I have watched the boys progress through the school. I have no doubt they will make good at the academy."

"Who knows perhaps they will end up in the top 10 per cent of their graduating class and be offered a commission in the Marine Corps," he laughed.

Stroud Union District Will Name Directors-At-Large

FOR THE FIRST time in its history, Stroud Union will elect three at-large candidates for school director this year.

The reason for the election of these directors is rather complicated, but arises from the size requirement for a district the size of Stroud Union.

To begin the story of the three at-large directors, one must go back to the time before Stroud Union district came into being. That was in 1956.

Before the merger, there were four local school districts — Stroudsburg, Delaware Water Gap, Stroud Township, and Hamilton Township.

Original Jointure

In 1956, Stroudsburg had seven on its board, Water Gap had five, and Stroud Township had five. These three joined originally to form Stroud Union, giving a total of 17 directors.

Then Hamilton Township joined the district and brought five more directors. A district the size of Stroud Union is allowed only seven directors, however, so the school board had a surfeit of directors.

Since the directors cannot be relieved of office until their term expires except for misconduct, the school board had to pass up all subsequent elections until the number on the board dropped to the allowable level because of terms expiring.

As terms kept expiring, the number on the board sank closer and closer to seven. Terms for directors are six years.

Finally last year there were only seven left on the board. This year four of the seven director's terms expire, thus the district is eligible to elect four persons to keep the total at seven. Of the directors this year, three will be left after the four terms expire. Two persons are in their second year on the board, and one is in her fourth year.

Now there are four districts in the jointure. Each district is allowed one representative, leaving three vacancies on the board to be filled.

Hamilton Elects One

This year, Hamilton Township is the only district which will be left without a representative when the four terms expire. The other districts will be left with representation.

So Hamilton is the only Township that will have to elect a director. Yet we remember that there are three places left to bring the total to seven even with the Hamilton electee.

Three vacant three places, since all the districts have representation, must be filled by the jointure as a whole, and are called at-large directors, because elected by the populace at large.

So far, there are five Democrats and four Republicans seeking election as directors at-large.

Three will be chosen on each ticket in the May primary to run at-large in the general election. In the general election, three will be chosen to be on the school board to fill the vacancies.

New Concept In Social Security Benefits Outlined

A NEW concept in social security was described today as "partial retirement payments" by Edward F. Sullivan, Social Security Administration district manager at Easton.

Sullivan stated that many persons in the district are getting some retirement benefits, even though they are working and earning more than $1200 per year. He also stated that many more persons in the district could be receiving from one to eleven months' benefits per year by filing an application.

Sullivan went on to explain that earnings of $1200 per year is no longer an absolute level beyond which all social security benefits are cut off. Instead, $1200 is the point at which social security benefits begin to be adjusted due to excess earnings.

Not A Stock Loss

By William A. Doyle

Q. Some stock I own is currently trading at a lower price than the price I originally paid for it. But I do feel that it is a good growth stock for the future. I plan to give this stock to my niece. If I do, can I claim this as a loss when I file my income tax return?

A. Of course not. When you give away some stock or any other "capital asset," that's a gift — not a loss. Don't get any ideas about claiming it as a loss on your income tax return.

The tax rules covering gifts are different and in some ways more complicated than the rules covering income taxes. Frankly, anyone who is considering making a sizable gift (of stock, cash, etc.) should consult a good tax lawyer.

However, there does seem to be a relatively simple solution to your problem. If you sell that stock, you will have a loss—the difference between the higher price you paid and the lower price you will receive from the sale. That loss can then be reported as a capital loss when you file your income tax return.

Then, you can give the proceeds you receive from the sale to your niece as a gift. If the niece is under 21, you should check (again with a lawyer) the best possible way to make the gift (either in cash or in stock) under the "gift to minors' law."

Q. I notice that you invariably tell people to see a lawyer before making any major gift, of stock or such, to children. You have also written that gifts to minors laws are now in force in all 50 states and the District of Columbia. Surely, there must be some simple form for making such a gift. Aren't the gifts to minors laws the same all over?

A. No, they are not. Those laws do vary from one state to another. Because of this (and the tax consequences of the various laws) it's smart to get advice from a good attorney before making any gift—whether it's to a minor or anyone else.

Q. Recently I exchanged 156 shares of a mutual fund I had owned for a number of years for shares of another mutual fund. Both of these mutual funds are run by the same organization. Should I have paid any commission charge on the exchange?

A. That depends on the mutual fund organization.

A number of mutual fund organizations manage two or more individual mutual funds.

Some of these organizations allow shareholders to exchange shares of one fund for shares of another fund, without any commission charge. But, even in these cases, there is usually a small fee (say, $5 or $10) to cover the necessary bookkeeping.

Some of these organizations have a "reduced commission charge" for such exchanges. In those cases the commission charge is usually about half of the normal commission on the purchase of fund shares—say, 4½ percent of the total value of the shares involved.

And some of those organizations actually levy a full commission charge of 7½ to 8½ percent when a shareholder exchanges shares of one mutual fund for shares of another.

In any case all commission charges are spelled out in the prospectus published by each mutual fund. You should have received a copy of the prospectus before you made the exchange.

Here again, I'll keep stressing: READ THE PROSPECTUS.

(Mr. Doyle will answer only representative letters of general interest in his column. He cannot answer phone queries.)

Hospital Payments Approved

Record Harrisburg Bureau

HARRISBURG — Payments totaling $9,665.96 to General Hospital of Monroe County, East Stroudsburg, as partial state aid reimbursements have been approved by the Auditor General and forwarded to the local facility.

Of the $9,665.96, a total of $8,252.37 represented the initial 75 per cent subsidy due the local institution for the three-month period ended December 31.

The remaining $1,413.59 was the final 25 per cent due the local hospital for the preceding quarter ended September 30. In January the hospital received the initial 75 per cent subsidy — amounting to $4,622.25 — for the period.

Each payment is designed to cover in part the cost of free patient care provided by the hospital during the quarter for those indigents unable to pay their own bills.

WESTFIELD, N.J. — The Presbyterian Church in Westfield was the setting for the April 27 wedding of Miss Nancy Joyce Barbour, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Robert J. Barbour of Westfield to Wesley W. Werkheiser.

Mr. Werkheiser is the son of Mrs. Arthur Pearson of Bogota, N.J., and Wilson Werkheiser of Stroudsburg, and the grandson of Mr. and Mrs. George Marsh of East Stroudsburg.

Rev. Dr. Frederick E. Christian, senior minister, performed the ceremony. A reception followed at the Bound Brook Inn.

Given in marriage by her father, the bride had Miss Annette Haase of East Rockaway, L.I. as her honor attendant. Bridesmaids were Mrs. Robert G. Rice of Staten Island and Mrs. Jere Young of Havertown, sister of the bridegroom.

Philip Ross of Hackensack was best man. Ushering were Robert F. Barbour and Kenneth S. Barbour of Westfield, brothers of the bride.

Maurice Maudell of Somerville was soloist, and Dr. George W. Volkel of Westfield was organist.

The bride's gown of silk peau de soie was designed with a chapel train. Her shoulder-length veil of illusion was attached to a seed pearl cap. She carried a cascade of white roses.

Her attendants wore fern green street-length gowns and carried cascades of yellow and white daisies with ivy.

The bride's mother wore a yellow sheath dress with matching accessories and a yellow orchid. The bridegroom's mother wore a pink ensemble with a pink orchid corsage. For traveling the bride wore a beige suit with matching accessories and a white orchid corsage.

An alumna of Westfield High School and Wagner College, Staten Island, the bride is with the Visiting Nurse Assn. of Eastern Union County. Her husband is a graduate of East Stroudsburg High School and Wagner College. He is associated with the Government Employees Insurance Co., New York.

The couple will reside in Elizabeth, N.J., after a wedding trip to Williamsburg, Va.

He also urged local librarians to seek increases in local funds which can be coupled with state aid to improve facilities.

Samuel Molod, director of the J. V. Brown Library, Williamsport, warned the delegates their action should not be governed by critics or pressure groups who say, "This book should be banned."

"It is the duty of librarians to make the books available to the public and let them decide," he concluded.

Molod declared that removal of a book from a library shelf for any reason constitutes censorship.

VOICE OF THE VILLAGE

Spring . . . when housewife's finger turns to thoughts of protecting her family's winter wardrobe. And to help you the Norge Village will moth-proof and mildew-proof everything you clean . . . free.

This offer is possible because of the new Norge-Moth-Mildew-proofing Powder, a marvelous product compounded by Norge and the Dew Chemical Company specially for Norge Villages.

So, don't let moths "bug" you. Clean and moth-proof your clothes in one easy operation. You'll be glad you did in the Fall when you don't discover heart-breaking damage to your favorite woollens.

TIDY BITS:

• A winter vacationer returning from the sunny south was seen emptying suitcases of soiled clothes at the Village last week. He said, "Sure I have an automatic washer and dryer at home, but it would take me days to wash all these clothes." So she proceeded to fill one of our "Big Boys" (25-lb. washer) and 3 of our regular family washers to capacity with her bright cottons, knens and wash 'n wears. Her vacation wardrobe also included colorful silk slits, capri pants and matching flower shirts which were all dehydrated for just $2.

• Next time you bring in your drycleaning why not include your husband's neckties, your silk scarves and other small items. They are practically weightless and will clean beautifully.

See you at the Village

Mental Health Assn. Hears Psychiatrist At Annual Meet

STROUDSBURG — At the annual dinner meeting of the Monroe County Mental Health Association at the Penn-Stroud Hotel, Saturday night, the slate of new officers and directors was presented to the membership present by Dr. John Abbruzzese, chairman of the nominating committee. The following were elected: For President, Mrs. James Gould; Vice Pres., Mrs. H. W. Goldstein; Secretary, Mrs. Marjorie Leonard; Treasurer, Mr. William Clark.

The program of the evening was a talk on "Psychiatry," by Dr. Margaret Evermon, practicing psychiatrist, and head of the Children's Bldg., ASH.

John A. Abbruzzese Jr., introduced Dr. Evermon, who gave a most interesting talk to which those present listened with great eagerness. Her subject, Psychiatry, in one of distinct interest to the layman, and yet one in which definite knowledge is meagre. This highly skilled expert, likened the work of the Monroe County Mental Health Assn. to a first aid station, to which, in an emergency, people in trouble may turn for advice on how and where to get help.

Professional Help

Dr. Evermon pointed out that the one thing which the layman can do for a person in trouble is to listen sympathetically. Sometimes, even the mere act of talking at length to a friendly listener who need make no comment, may alleviate the difficulty if it is not too deep seated. She also pointed out the dangers of giving "common sense" advice to a person who is anxious, depressed and fearful. "Snap out of it!" If the person could snap out of it, he would not be in the trouble in which he finds himself.

Also, she warned against the trend of giving advice to a person suffering from deep seated stresses and strains to go take a rest—go on a vacation. Such a person, taking all of his difficulties with him, finds no help for his troubled mind; in fact, it may be the worst advice to give him. He must have the help of a physician in his mental illness as does a person who has a bodily illness.

The trend in the treatment of mental illness is to have a facili-ity within the community, where one who has need of help can get it without leaving family and friends and community; in a psychiatric clinic on an out-patient basis, or in a psychiatric unit for daycare; and the time is not far distant when such a facility may be available in this community and similar communities.

Halfway centers, such as Haven House, and community social centers and job guidance agencies are increasing in number; the community itself has a responsibility in the treatment of those suffering from mental illness.

James Gould, incoming president, remarked that The Monroe County Mental Health Assn. had a challenge to meet, and hoped to have the cooperation of his officers and Board on meeting it.

Following is a list of present board members of the Monroe County Mental Health Assn.:

Terms to expire, May 1964—Mrs. Frank Hagure, Mrs. Leon J. Meyung, Mrs. Arthur Henning, Mrs. Lawrence Musselman, Mrs. Regina O'Neill, Dr. John A. Abbruzzese Jr., Rev. Luther Markin, Elam Gray, Mrs. Justin Feltham.

Terms to expire May, 1965—Miss Elizabeth Martin, George Rung, Mrs. Margaret Shull, Mrs. Carroll All, William Clark, Dr. Bennet Strait, Frank J. Gochal, Rep. Van D. Yetter, Jr., Dr. Nina Price.

Milford Again Top Winner In Community Development

MILFORD—Milford has taken first prize money of $1,500 for Class E cities in the annual Pennsylvania Community Development Contest for 1962.

This is the seventh year in a row—a record for the state—that Milford has won money in the State Chamber of Commerce sponsored contest.

Prizes since 1956 now total $3,750 for the Pike County community. Mrs. Cynthia Von Lierde, a member of the committee that submits the town development book to the judges each year, said "this year we won the award mainly because of our planning activities. This need was felt because of the proposed Tocks Island Dam and National Recreation Area."

Milford won top prize money in Class E competition, open to cities with population up to 2,000. Four other classes are judged, with Class E being the smallest group.

The prize money is awarded "for superior improvement projects carried out during 1962, and will be ploughed back into additional community enterprises," according to the State Chamber of Commerce.

Bowmanstown, West End Triumph

S-burg A's Win 2nd Straight In P.M.B.L.

THE STROUDSBURG A's are the only undefeated team in the Pocono Mountain Baseball League following yesterday's win over Reoders, 5-2, in the second week of play. Bowmanstown and West End, losers on opening day a week ago, gained their first triumphs of the young season.

Tom Barrows hurled a six-inning for the A's and sent down 14 batters on strikes to give Coach Dick Miller's combine a 2-0 record. A six-run outburst in the third inning carried the A's from a 1-0 deficit to a 6-1 lead. Stroud-burg coasted to victory from that point as they scored a run in the seventh and two more in the eighth while Barrows yielded but only one more tally to Reoders in the sixth.

Stroudsburg batted out a total of 12 hits in the fray to send Reoders down to their first defeat.

West End, the defending champions of the PMBL, who dropped their opener to Stroudsburg in the opener, was extended to 10 innings before gaining a 5-4 win over Saylorburg on the strength of Dean Lakatos's solo homer in the bottom of the 10th.

The West Enders sent two runs across the plate in the bottom of the first after the Lakers had opened with a tally at the start of the game. West End added another pair in the fifth for a 4-1 cushion, but Saylorburg rallied for three markers in the seventh to tie the count.

Bushkill gained its first win with a 3-4 triumph over Bowmanstown as Harold Strunk went the distance for the winners on the loser's field.

Both clubs scored a run in the second but Bushkill went ahead by 3-1 with a pair in the fifth and sealed the verdict with a five-run sixth.

NEW YORK (AP) — Approximately $150 million is spent annually on television sports programs, according to the May 6 issue of Sports Illustrated.

Sponsor's estimates of top television sports experts showed that baseball led the list with $60 million for regular season games, network Game-of-the-Week and World Series telecasts. Pro football was next with $35 million, followed by college football with $25.

Millions Of Dollars

Pro Wrestling Is

A Big Business

CHICAGO (AP)—No matter how you look at professional wrestling, you look at all—their big money in human beings making pretzels out of each other.

"A million groans, a million dollars," says Fred Kohler.

Kohler, 60-year-old Chicago promoter, is king of the ham market. One of his promotional tricks is to tape a television wrestling show, give it free to a local station, then several days after it has been telecast, move in with the same cast of anatomy benders to perform in the flesh.

A million dollars passes through his hands yearly, he says.

Although TV exploitation has hyped interest in the trade, professional wrestling always has seemed to have had its load of fans.

Some Cleaned Up

"Back in the depression years of the 1930's, people who didn't commit suicide watched the shows," says Kohler. "And some wrestlers cleaned up. I remember Gus Sonnenberg coming in off a tour with his suitcase stuffed with $85,000. He didn't believe in banks and wasn't afraid anybody would try to take it away from him."

Kohler says his most frustrating experience was wrestling a 700-pound bear. They were on tour together in the Midwest.

"It kept out-thinking me," he recalls. "I finally won a match with it in Dubuque (Iowa) and turned to wrestling more orthodox opponents."

Kohler makes up a wrestling card with a basic thought of getting emotional response from the audience.

Once he overdid himself. He had a fellow called The Sheik.

"This guy could shoot flames from his fingers—and you've got to admit that's quite a trick," says Kohler. "In a bout at Cokesbury Park, The Sheik used it against one of my nice guys. The fans went wild. They had blood in their eyes."

"Then someone set off the White Sox scoreboard. Lights flashed, aerial bombs shot out and the Star Spangled Banner played. It diverted attention and probably prevented a lynching."

Latins Getting Tougher

U.S. Grabs 108

Pan-Am Medals

By KEN DAVIS

Associated Press Staff Writer

SAO PAULO, Brazil (AP)—The fourth Pan-American Games ended Sunday with the United States walking off with most of the spoils but not without some unexpected bumps from its Latin neighbors.

The Yanks captured 108 gold medals, 55 silvers and 37 bronzes. The next closest nation, Brazil, took 14 golds. But Uncle Sam had his troubles and failed to sweep unhampered through the field as he had done in the past.

Yank boxers, once undisputed kings of the canvas, managed to eke out only two of 10 golds—and four bronzes. Baseball went to Cuba.

Uncle Sam's women track and field team won six of 10 gold medals. In 1959, they took eight of nine.

The U.S. men's track and field team took 16 of 23 gold medals, 100-meter relay. They lost such counting the disputed gold for the Yank specialties as the 100 and 200-meter dashes, the 800 and 1,600-meter relays, among others.

Uncle Sam's lack lost their midas touch completely in cycling, which isn't an American specialty but was the only shutout of the extravaganza for the Yanks.

It became apparent that what the Latin teams north and south of the Equator needed was more money and more astute selection of athletes. An example: Argentina sent a javelin thrower who was a South American champion—many years ago. He didn't last into the finals, having thrown away his pitching arm these many years.

Best Ratio

Guatemala sent only three athletes. They won two silvers, probably the best ratio of medals to manpower in the games.

As an exercise in hemispheric solidarity and good will, the games had their weaknesses.

Some of the long-standing friction between Brazil and Argentina erupted in a free-wheeling fight among soccer players of the two countries. Some Cubans and Brazilians whooped it up in an intramural battle outside Bom Retiro baseball stadium.

The Canadians and the Yanks yelled about officiating at the boxing matches and the Brazilians pitched ice cream cones and other missiles at the basketball climax between Brazil and the United States.

Canada angrily announced it would not accept a silver medal in a yacht race won by Argentina.

The Cleveland Indians, pitched out of a ninth-inning jam by Barry Latman, scored their fourth straight victory Sunday, defeating the Los Angeles Angels 4-3.

It was the fourth consecutive loss for the Angels, who have scored only four runs in their last 39 innings.

Cleveland right-hander Dick Donovan was working on a four-hitter going into the ninth and had a 4-1 lead. Then Albie Pearson reached base on an error and two infield singles, by Billy Morin and Leon Wagner, loaded the bases with none out.

Pearson scored on a single by Lee Thomas and Morin came in as Wagner was caught in a run-down between second and third. Then Latman replaced Donovan. He got pinch hitter Bob Sadowski on a foul pop-up and Tom Satriano ended the game by flying out.

Cleveland 010 002 100-4 7 1 Los Angeles 100 000 002-3 7 1 Donovan, Latman (9) and Edwards; Belinsky, Fowler (8) Osinski (9) and E. Sadowski, Kirkpatrick (9), W-Donovan (2-1), L-Belinsky (1-4).

Home runs—Cleveland, Adcock (2).

School Golf Match

BUCK HILL FALLS — Pocono Mountain High School will play Stroud Union in a golf match today at Buck Hill Falls. This is the first year of competition for the Cardinals in the sport.

PHILADELPHIA (AP)—Behind the pitching of Dick Farrell, the Houston Colts salvaged the finale of their four-game series with the Philadelphia Phillies Sunday, winning the nightcap 5-2 after two home-inning misplays helped the home team take their third straight in the opener, 6-5.

In the opener, a misjudged line drive by Bobby Wine went for a triple and opened the gates for the Phillies' ninth-inning rally. Reliever Hal Woodeshick walked pinch hitter Don Demeter and Taylor singled home the tying run.

Pinch hitter Wayne Graham then topped a ball toward the mound and Woodeshick tossed it to catcher John Bateman. Demeter slid into the rookie, knocked the ball from his hands and scored the winning run.

ALL OF US work for a living. Advertising is a part of our economy. It helps make mass distribution possible; that in turn helps for mass production. Mass production and distribution together employ most of us. And they generate the prosperity on which all of us depend.

HERE is a pleasant little game that will give you a message every day. It is a numerical puzzle designed to spell out your fortune. Count the letters in your first name. If the number is less than 6, add 6. If the number is 6 or more, subtract 6. If the number is less than 6, add 6. The result is your key number. Start at the upper left-hand corner of the rectangle and check every one of your key numbers off to the right. Then read the message the letters under the checked figures give you.

Four-County Dog Officer Appointed

BUSHKILL — Walter P. Bensley, Bushkill, has been appointed dog law officer for Monroe, Pike, Carbon and Wayne counties.

Anyone found owning or harboring an unlicensed dog will be prosecuted without any exception, according to Bensley. Dog owners are cautioned to keep their dogs confined to their own property or under proper control with respect to the rights and properties of others.

Bensley's phone number is Bushkill 588-5512.

MORE THAN 300,000 doctors, nurses and dentists were trained under the GI Bill of Rights, according to Veterans Administration figures.

FISHERMEN spend over $100 million annually in Minnesota, with nonresidents contributing over $30 million of the total, the Minnesota Conservation department reports.

Wayne Man Gets State Roads Post

HONESDALE — David Edwards, Seelyville, Wayne County, has been named administrative officer, Scranton District, Pennsylvania Department of Highways, replacing Joseph Fadden, Scranton.

Fadden was demoted to a position described as clerk S. Edwards reported for work Thursday at district offices on the O'Neill Highway. His salary figure was not immediately available, although Fadden's salary was $7,748.

It was also disclosed that 25 holdover employees of the Dept. of Highways at Clark Summit, near Scranton, were dismissed and replaced this week.

Pen Argyl To Honor Dr. Muth

PEN ARGYL — Ceremonies honoring Dr. William E. Muth, supervising principal of the Pen Argyl schools for 47 years, will be held June 2 at Pen Argyl Joint High School by residents and civic organizations.

Muth will retire at the end of the school term.

Dr. Floyd R. Stafer, president of the Northampton County School Board, will be a speaker. Other speakers will be from borough organizations.

Wayne Sousa and David Turiano will represent the senior and junior classes of the high school and Rev. Robert Sandercock, Easton, will be master of ceremonies.

PM Joint Units Card 3 Meetings

SWIFTWATER — David E. Nelson, secretary, Pocono Mountain Joint Schools, announced last night that three meetings in the high school are scheduled for the week.

The building and grounds committee will meet Tuesday at 7 p.m. in the high school.

The Pocono Mountain Joint School Authority will convene Wednesday at 7 p.m., and the Joint School Committee will meet Wednesday at 8 p.m. in the board of education room in the high school.

Ryan Named Troop Chief

HARRISBURG (AP) — State Police Maj. Paul V. Ryan, brother-in-law of former commissioner Frank G. McCortney, has been named commander of the department's District 2.

Ryan formerly was stationed at the Stroudsburg barracks of the State Police.

Commissioner E. Wilson Purdy named him to succeed former Maj. Ralph D. Gardner, who retired three weeks ago and now serves as executive director of the State Harness Racing Commission.

The district encompasses units at Harrisburg, Hollidaysburg, Montoursville and the Pennsylvania Turnpike.

Ryan had been commanding Sub-District 2, which included Montoursville and Hollidaysburg.
